No Vacancy Changes It Up

Sydney, November 1 & 2

Exciting times ahead for No Vacancy, founded in 2007, which has been acquired by National Media from founder Martin Kelly, who also publishes TravelTrends.biz.

The new era kicks off with No Vacancy - The Accommodation Business Expo at Sydney's new International Convention Centre on November 1 & 2.

"We'll be taking No Vacancy to another level, combining high quality content with a large trade show featuring up to 150 exhibitors across all verticals, transforming it into the business hub of Australia's accommodation industry," says Harvey.

He says the accommodation industry is worth more than $18 billion to the Australian economy. "Yet surprisingly, given the size of the industry there is no dedicated exhibition designed to meet all its needs."

"No Vacancy - The Accommodation Business Expo will fill this void and offer hoteliers and other accommodation industry professionals a platform to discover products and ideas to optimize their properties, create amazing guest experiences and ultimately boost their profits."

Historically No Vacancy has been very much an accommodation marketing conference, but the new look exhibition will embrace all aspects of the accommodation business.

Content is still central to the event and will be expanded upon with more topics, more sessions and more speakers.

The exhibition will showcase the best quality suppliers across design and decor, property management, operations and finance, housekeeping, spa and leisure, in-room and guest-facing technology, and marketing, distribution and reservation solutions.

"We are really excited about where we can take No Vacancy and look forward to working closely with the community that's been supporting the event since 2007," said Harvey.
